SY-SBPK - Cylinder Back Pack Assembly

This diving tank back-pack is a single tank backpack that is very durable for all kinds of divers. This tech diving single tank backpack is constructed of a strong, lightweight material capable of withstanding corrosion by sea water.

This diving back pack has quick release stainless steel buckles at the waist that divers can remove or minimise weight pockets donning and doffing.

The backpack is also much more comfortable for the carrier, since the weight of a cylinder is not good for the spine. This diving tank backpack disperses weight across the hips and back, minimising shoulder strain.

This tank backpack, in its preferred form, includes laterally extending wings to which a harness or strap is attached which still further minimises the possibility of entanglement. The free ends of the strap are buckled together around the waist. When the backpack is properly worn, it holds the air tank securely on the back of the carrier without side-to-side motion.

Northern Diver offers a basic, lightweight harness, constructed of impact-resistant plastic to minimize weight without sacrificing strength.

Impact resistant plastic backplate with basic webbing harness and tank strap. Backplate includes all standard slots and attachment point holes at standard widths and on-center distances.

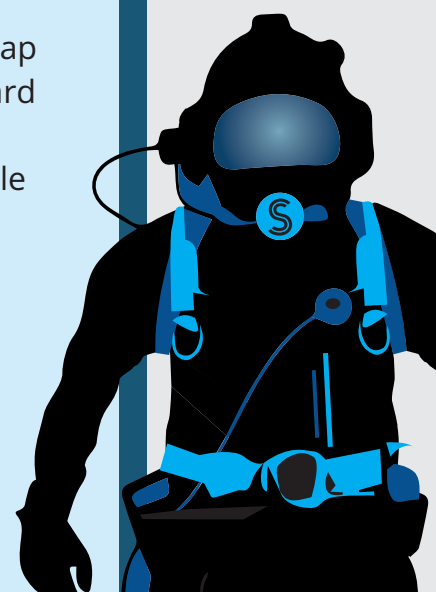

Strong webbing harness straps and belt with 304 stainless steel, airline style belt, and tank cam strap buckles.

Approx. webbing width: 2 inches

Single cylinder backpack with integral carry-handles

Includes single cylinder cam band and harness.

Good for pool cleaning, working under a boat, tech diving and more.
